HALLET & DAVIS PIANOS.

Embody the results of almost sixty years of earnest effort on the part of some of the ablest men ever engaged in Piano building. They also represent a larger expenditure of money in scientific research and experiment than does the product of any other maker. They are original in every feature—commonplace in none. While famous for their beauty of tone, touch, appearance and durability, as now sold by the makers direct to the people, (no agents), they cost the buyer but a trifle more than ordinary Pianos. Terms to suit. Investigation solicited. Five other makers represented—side-by-side comparison aids the buyer.

The Evening Post"

The Art Department of The Chicago Evening Post is one of its strongest features. The criticisms show a breadth of judgment, deep knowledge of the subject and a familiarity with the current art of the day, which at once stamp the opinions expressed as coming from one who speaks with authority. It is not an exaggeration to say that The Chicago Evening Post is the art authority throughout the West. Ably edited, impartial, thoughtful, the critiques have won widespread recognition and the marked influence excited by them is abundant proof of their soundness and sterling worth. Embellished with reproductions of the best that is being produced in the Art World, The Evening Post's art department reflects in every particular unusual care and ability. . . . .
